The Omaha Republican says Thomas 1 Bayard is "a good man, a strong man, but, as the Democratic candidate for the Presidency, he will have the load of southern indiscretion and disloyalty to stagger under, and this will be to him the shadow of death." How long, ob, how long is this sort of slander against the south to be continued? Away up in Maine, the land of pumpkin pies, they are having a rebellion of their own. "Indiscretion" rules the hour. The very pine trees that grow so luxuriantly on the bleak While all this is going on, the ty; yet we are told Bayard, with all his popplarity, purity and great abilities, cannot be southern indiscretion and disloyalty.' The grand predominating desire of south is to see sectional haobliterated, and the Union cemented together, not by bayonets, but by the affections of a homogeneous people. Our people support Bayard for this and typical of the progressive Democracy. ing a judgment it is best to consider first what plan we should expect an engineer would select if he could have everything at his wish. That plan would be: first, the shortest canal possible; second, the straightest canal possible; third, a canal without locks in preference to one with them, if circumstances will permit. In forming a judgment the choice would be in favor of that plan, other things being equal, which comes nearest to these three desirable conditions. The first of the proposed plans which we shall mention has for its route a line across the isthmus of Tehuantepec. This is one of the easiest to ave conts per line each subsequent insertion.

The occurrence of occasional earthtwenty accurately-fitting locks are required. One lock out of order would obstruct the whole canal. The second proposed plan is by the way of the lake of Nicaragua; length, one hundred and eighty miles; number of locks, seventeen; time for passage, four and a half days. This route, it is claimed, has the advantage of easy approach at Niragus, a moderate ramfall, good stone and me, a supply of cattle, water to feed the canal from the lake, which has a surface of twenty-eight hundred mites. This route has good harbors at each extremity. Objections urged against this route are that the lake is the year uncertain. The harbor on the Pacific is blocked by shoal water. The region is subject to earthquakes. Numerous crests would have to be removed. Part of the distance is along the San Juan river, where there are many sharp turns; the practice now hills sing a mournful dirge to the tune of is to build steamers larger than has hitherto "disloyalty" to the constitution and laws of been done. For large vessels there must be ample curves, sharp angles would exclude them from the canal, and the canal must be of the United States notes now outstanding, built with a view to the future. Third-The plan for a level canal by the Isthmus of Panama; length, forty-five miles; locks, none; time of passage, two days. This canni being the shortest and the straightest of all, presents every purpose. He is a patriot, a conservative appearance of coming nearer to what is desired than any other. Then it has another thing in its favor: Monsieur Lesseps, the successful constructor of the Suez canal, declares in favor of it above all the other routes, has undertaken to construct it, and has visited the spot to make arrangements for the commencement of the actual work of construction. This imparts another advantage; the Panama is the only one of the pro- log and currency should be to force action in jected canals that has as yet made a step be-Our people are not "disloyal." I take pleasure in recommending this school to my friends and the public generally. The salubrity of the climate, the conduct of the domestic department, and the qualification of the teachers, place the school in the first rank of educational institutions. This is really a Home School. The boys are well behaved and happy, and under the best domestic, educational and religious influences.
